A small NGO for a great cause: empower communities in developing countries to achieve a decent living on their land and from their land, through entrepreneurship.
This could be called autonomy, we would rather call it dignity.

Agrisud is a field-based operator, who works with local partners, and whose concern is on the long term.

We try and help local people, training them on agroecology, best practices and management.

We pay respect to both the human being and the local development. We mobilize both local know-how and innovation.

As down-to-earth as our action may be, our ambition is high: make it possible for people to become entrepreneurs, in order to build their own destiny. This is our way to embody solidarity.
